THE NATIONAL GUARD

Official Announcement of the Acquittal of Captain Chisholm.

COMMENT OF REVIEWING AUTHORITY

Officer Released From Arrest and Restored to Duty.

OTHER MILITARY MATTERS

The result of the recent trial by courtmartial of Captain D. V. Chisholm, Com-pany B, 2d Battalion, District Columbia National Guard, on charges alleging conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, was this afternoon officially announced. As heretofore stated in The Star. the court acquitted the accused officer, the findings being "not guilty" on each charge and each specification. The commanding general of the District of Columbia militia, who is the reviewing authority, proves, in unmistakable language, the findngs and acquittal of the court. In view of the acquittal Captain Chisholm, is, of ourse, released from arrest and restored to duty.

General Harries' Comment. The comment of the reviewing authority

s as follows:
"The findings and acquittal are disap-

"The testimony presented is conclusive to the effect that Captain Chisholm was fully the effect that Captain Chisholm was fully aware of the date, time and place when and where the ceremony was to occur, even though he might not have received a printed copy of general orders No. 28. The notification by the acting adjutant of the battalion, the memorandum from the battalion inspector of rifle practice, and the conversation between the inspector general of rifle practice and the accused all combined to supply information as to the event. Captain Chisholm was, therefore, admittedly guilty of neglect of duty.

"The court does not seem to have understood its authority in the premises; au-guilty of neglect of duty.

"The court does not seem to have understood its authority in the premises; authority which empowered it to substitute a charge discovered by testimony for any other charge which, by reason of technicality or lax statement, may have failed to secure precise substantiation.

"Credence has evidently been given to the absurd theory that a staff officer may only issue orders upon the direct authority of his chief. As a matter of custom and fact a staff officer may early time unless the chief has expressly forbidden him so to do.

"This case unquestionably had its origin in an evasion of military duty. Testimony shows that the accused, with a portion of his company, had engaged to participate in an exhibition drill, for which no proper permission was either asked or granted. To cover this offense the piea of non-receipt of orders seemed necessary. Regular procedure and unequivocal statement would have averted this trial.

"There is only one standard of honor. The officer of the National Guard is on no lower plane of conscientiousness than is the officer of the regular establishment; character takes no note of recompense, whether the compensation be financial or otherwise.

"Captain Chisholm is released from arrest and restored to duty."

rest and restored to duty.

School for Officers. The opinion at headquarters is that the court did not know its power as regards the substitution of charges. Therefore, it is very much more than likely that school for officers will be established in the near future, in connection with which the study of military law and procedure will be a feature. The trial, it is pointed out, develfeature. The trial, it is pointed out, devel-oped the fact that a number of otherwise excellent and efficient officers are lacking in knowledge of military law, and also as to the authority of staff officers. What is characterized as an astonishing degree of ignorance and weakness on the part of certain officers of high rank, as was part of certain officers of high rank, as was developed by the testimony, is to result in several changes. Action thereon is to be taken without further delay now that the trial and the announcement of the findings are things of the past. Although not included in the record, the vote is understood to have been 7 to 5 for accusting.

The Service Revolver.

Of general interest is n decision just reached that beginning with the current season all officers who desire to do so may qualify with the service revolver, either of thirty or forty-five caliber. The classificasame as with the rifle In the gallery the qualification wal be ten shots each at ten, fifteen, twenty and twenty-five yards; on the range, ten shots twenty-five yards; on the range, ten shots each at thirty, forty, fifty and sixty yards. The chief of ordnance will issue at once forty-five-caliber revolvers to officers. An effort is to be made, however, to secure a number of thirty-eight-caliber revolvers. Hereafter, it has been decided, 200 rounds of ammunition will be issued free each month to each company of the guard for eam practice. team practice.

An improvement of some importance at the Center Market Armory will be a platform and gallery for spectators, to be erected in the gymnasium. The need of a gallery has long been felt.

Transfer of the Oneida.

League of American Riffemen.

League of American Riflemen. In connection with the organization of a league of American riflemen, now in prog-ress, attention is called to the fact that the United States is likely in the future to receive many challenges for international competitions; at the present time there is no rifle organization representing the United States at large, consequently if England, France, or any other foreign country wished to shoot an international rifle or revolver competition it would be necessary to make the arrangements between England and the New Jersey State Rifle Association, or France and the Massachusetts

Rifie Association. Both of the American associations, it is admitted, are organizations worthy of imitation, but they are local in name if not otherwise.

"The League of American Riflemen will aim to have on its roll members from every state in this country," so it stated. "It cannot live without such a broad membership. It should be officered by men from different parts of this country with broad, different parts of this country with broad iberal views, free from local prejudices striving to advance the interest in riffe practice in the country at large. What is wanted by the league is to inspire or lead practice in the country at large. What is wanted by the league is to inspire or lead our men, our youths to make rifle shooting a national sport.

"Rifle shooting in this country will be conducted differently in the future than it has been in the past. There will be much more of meeting on a common ground; there will be competition between foreign and home teams; it will be a part of the curriculum of the American college student as it is now in England, France and other foreign countries.

"The league will own no ranges; it will not be a commercial enterprise; it will not grant special favors for any particular state; it will not endeavor to be in any private enterprise, but it will aim for the advancement in rifle shooting in this country; it will formulate rules; determine the proper targets to be used; decide how matches shall be conducted; receive challenges from abroad; select the teams representing this country; supply the means for the expense of international matches. senting this country; supply the means for the expense of international matches. A principal object will to learn what is the best military arm; the best ammunition, and influence as many as possible to use that arm with skill."

International Revolver Match. In addition to a proposed cable revolver match between French and American revolver shots there will probably be another match shot in Paris this summer by teams representing France and America. A fev weeks ago C. S. Axte'l, the expert revolver weeks ago C. S. Axtel, the expert revolver shot, left this country for Paris, where he will remain several months. Before he left America he made an extensive trip through the west and south, meeting a number of prominent revolver shots, and just before he sailed for Paris he saw many of the eastern revolver experts and learned that a number of them contemplated a trip to Paris during the coming summer. All of them would visit Gastinne-Renette's gallery, and most of them thought a revolver them would visit Gastinne-Renette's gallery, and most of them thought a revolver match shot in that gallery between a French and an American team would prove interesting. Joseph Wesson of Springfield, Mass., will leave for Paris soon, to remain there until the exposition closes. Frank Hodgskins and J. B. Crabtree, also of Springfield, two strong revolver shots, will visit Paris early in the coming summer. Eugene L. Harpham of Chicago, another enthusiastic revolver shot, will go to Paris. C. S. Richmond of Georgia is considering going; so is F. B. Crowninshield of Massachusetts, and possibly First Lieut. W. M. Farrow of the District of Columbia National Guard, Lieut. Sumner Paine and Lieut. John Paine of Massachusetts and others.

Revolver Matches at Sea Girt.

The committee in charge of the revolver matches, consisting of Lieut. Jumner Paine of Boston, Lieut. Reginald R. Sayre of New York and C. S. Richmond of Savannah, announce that everything has been done to make these matches a popular feature of the next meeting of the New Jersey State Rifle Association at Sea Girt. Such changes will be made in the conditions governing as will tend to satisfy the most exacting.
Better facilities on the revolver ranges and For "Schuetzen" shooting the

For "Schuetzen" shooting there will be provided increased facilities, more targets and prizes. This department will be in the hands of a committee composed of Wil Hayes of Newark, N. J.; Harry M. Pot Hartford, Conn.: N. Spering, president of the Philadelphia Rifle Association; Gus. Zimmerman, president of the Zettler Rifle Club of New York; John Taylor Humphrey of Boston, Mass., and Thomas Keller of New York.

Uselessness of a Sword

Frequent reference has been made to the selessness of a sword to a military officer. This, it is pointed out, has been unmistak ably demonstrated in the South African war. A British officer, writing on the subject from South Africa, says: "At this stage of the campaign every officer carries a rifle or carbine: swords and gew-gaws have all been banished to the base with have all been banished to the base with the heavy baggage." Apropos to this sub-ject the question is asked, Should officers shoot in the rifle competitions in times of peace? It has been argued that they should not, and that none but non-commissioned officers and privates should qualify or com-pete with rifles, the officers' shooting being confined to the revolver. Recent events, it is contended, show conclusively that offi-cers should learn to shoot the rifle and to carry one in war. to carry one in war.

Rifle Matters.

The result of the regimental team rifle match shot last evening in the rifle gallery was: Second Regiment, 454; 1st Regiment, 449.

The scores in the battalion team match were: Sixth Battalion, 454; 4th Battalion. 440; 1st Battalion, 430; 5th Battalion, 429, and 2d Battalion, 412.

The business meeting of the Revolver Club last evening was well attended. Four new members were elected and participated in the matches that followed the meeting. A committee of three was appointed by President Bell to experiment and establish the proper handicap for the three classes of revolvers, consisting of Licutenant W. M. Farrow, Lieutenant Frank Holt and F. E. Healy.

Practical Joker's Nevel Inauguration of St. Patrick's Day.

Shocking Accidental Death of John W. Miller, a Former Resident of Tenleytown-Briefs.

Some practical jokers on M street near 23d street inaugurated the celebration of St. Patrick's day before midnight yester-A life-size figure was rigged up, wearing a green sash about five inches wide, a beaver hat surmounting the crown of the head, and was strung up on the telegraph wires on the south side of M street, directly over the center of the roadway of 33d street. In such a conspicuous place and with the glare of an arc light reflected fully on it, the figure presented the appearance of a human being. A late arrival coming up the street a few minutes before 12 o'clock attracted the attention of the entire neighborhood by his shouting. The cries were heard by Policeman Will Hess, who discovered the joke. The effigy remained in midair until some time about 2 o'clock this morning, when it was removed and thrown into the canal at 33d street, the figure being so weighted that it stood erect in the water with the import vertice. erect in the water, with the upper portion of the head and the beaver showing. It is charged that the two men obtained goods at two of the stores by pretending an order had been sent for them by Col. Thomas Ward, assistant adjutant general. Previous to obtaining the goods on this order Mrs. Ward was called on the telephone and asked at what stores she did her shopping. The man at the other end explained that the information was wanted for a mercantile directory that was soon to be published. After being told that she dealt at Saks & Co.'s and the Boston House the goods were delivered. the Boston House the goods were deliv-ered to the young man who gave the or-ders, as he said Mrs. Ward was in a hurry

Grand Visitation. The grand officers of the Independent Orer of Odd Fellows paid their annual visit o Central Lodge, No. 1, last evening. The grand master being a member of Central Lodge, the members thereof determined to show their appreciation of his services by an open entertainment, which was held in the auditorium in Odd Fellows' Hall. The committees had been working earnestly for the past three weeks in order that the en-tertainment would be made a success, and the fact that the hall was crowded, and that the crowd remained until the last number on the program, presented after 11 o'clock, is sufficient evidence to show that the labor was not in vain. The floral dec-orations were in charge of Messrs. Gude & Brother and a committee from Central Lodge.

The grand officers were welcomed by James B. Lloyd. The orator of the evening was Representative Jas. T. Lloyd of Miswas Representative said was represented with a handsouri.

During the entertainment Grand Master J. B. Ward was presented with a handsome silver set by the members of the lodge. The address of presentation was made by Grand Secretary Wm. R. Hunt.

grass of Tennessee and J. T. Lloyd of Missouri, vice presidents, and Rev. F. D. Power, secretary.

The Congressional Society is the oldest temperance organization in America. It was organized February 26, 1823, three months before the first national temperance convention ever held in this country, which met at Philadelphia in May of that year. In the old Senate chamber, now occupied by the Supreme Court, under the leadership of such men as Edward Everett. Daniel Webster, Horatio Seymour, Lewis Cass, Felix Grundy, George M. Dallas, Geo. N. Briggs, John Blair and William Hendricks, the society sprang into being. Mr. Lewis Cass, Secretary of War, was chosen president, and Theodore Frelinghuysen, senator from New Jersey, submitted a constitution, which was adopted and signed by 100 members of the Senate and House of Representatives.

In 1876, under the inspiration of Vice President Wilson and Senator Buckingham of Connecticut and others, the society became specially alive to the great purpose of its existence, and has enioved increascame specially alive to the great purpose of its existence, and has enjoyed increasing usefulness and prosperity since that time. On its roll from the beginning appear the names of George N.
